Addie, the quiet type of girl, is also full of fun! She is a real sport and greets everyone with a smile and with a sparkle in her brown eyes. BETTY ALLEN

"Bet" "Red"

Roosevelt School; Freshman Girls' Club; Girls' Club, 3, 5, Induction Committee.

A flash of color ripping past in the corridor makes one turn to see what blew by. Undoubtedly it was Red, excitedly telling, or complaining of her black and blues left as souvenirs of her wonderful times at North Conway. Her other interests are sailing, swimming, collecting records, dancing, and skating.

WALTER H. AMADON

Coolidge School; Orchestra, 1; Band, 1, 2, 3; Manager, 2, 3; Drum Major, 3, 4; Hi-Y, 2, 3, 4; Chairman of Membership Committee, 4; Rifle Club, 1, 2, 3, 4; Secretary, 3; Vice President, 4.

That ever smiling gentleman you saw as drum major at the football games is none other than Wally. Even though he participated in many other activities, he still found time to keep his marks above average.

THEODORE E. APPEL

"Ted" "Apple"

Coolidge School; Football, 1, 2, 3; Masque and Wig, 4.

In spite of his interest in sports, Ted has sacrificed them the past two years to work in a defense plant after school hours. ALICE ARMSTRONG"Al"

Alice came to us from Cambridge High School in the fall of '43. What Cambridge lost, we gained, for she is a friendly, cheerful person. She is interested in a great many sports, especially football and hockey. Alice is planning to go into training to be an "angel of mercy".

JEAN MARILYN ARNOLD"Jeannie"

Coolidge School; Freshman Girls' Club; Girls' Club, 3, 4.

In the year of 1940 the Coolidge School dropped a smart and friendly girl at the door of Melrose High, where she met and made many friends. She has been known mostly for her honor work in her studies, and her quiet and reserved ways. Jean is planning to further her schooling, and so you may see her tramping about the campus of some college.

LOUIS J. BACIGALUPO"Batch"

Lincoln School; Brush and Palette, 4; Hi-Y, 4.

In June 1944, Melrose will lose a young man who threatens to steal some of the fame from Leonardo Da Vinci and Micheal Angelo. Designing is Batch's favorite branch of artistry. Having seen his artistry ability demonstrated, I believe there is no doubt about his succeeding in this field.

ELEANOR ASHMAN"Ellie"

RICHARD G. BARWISE"Dick" "Ichabod"

Roosevelt School; Freshman Baseball; Track, 3, 4; Cross Country, 1, 2, 3, 4.

Up hill and down dale, Dick's long legs have carried him to win points for our cross-country team. In the social life of the school, too, Dick has been a shining star. As for wit, life would be dull without the sparkling jests that he tosses around in class rooms, dance halls, and soda fountains.

Corresponding SecretaryGail MacHugh

June 1944 brings to a close the eighteenth successful year of Girls' Club. From the opening meeting last fall until the closing meeting this spring the members enjoyed hearing many fine speakers, taking part in contests and talent programs, and seeing excellent movies. They also met with Hi-Y on several occasions.

Mothers' and Dads' Night will be remembered as one of our most outstanding meetings, at which we were honored to have District Attorney Bradford of Middlesex County speak.

In addition to our meetings the Club gave aid to the Parent-Teachers' Association, the Red Cross, the Y. M. C. A., the Infantile Paralysis Drive, and the Community Fund. We also continued our custom of aiding needy families at Thanksgiving and Christmas.

The success of this year's club was made possible by the whole-hearted cooperation of all the members and by the excellence of our able President, Shirley Johnson. All the girls of the senior class will never forget Monday nights.

Hi-Y Club

PresidentPeter D'Arrigo
Vice-PresidentAllan Dragone
SecretaryRaymond Swift
TreasurerOrlando Foss
Corresponding SecretaryBud Niles

During this year, Hi-Y had a banner season, with a membership well over one hundred at its peak. Besides giving aid to the Red Cross and other worthy causes, Hi-Y sponsored its yearly dance, which was a great success. After many years' silence, the Hi-Y paper again was issued, with the help of an able staff and Y. M. C. A. facilities. Many fine programs filled the schedule, including a Talent Night, three joint meetings with Girls' Club and five speakers such as Mr. Poole, Mr. Wilder, Mr. Sprague, and many others. Hi-Y this year has an outstanding record of achievement, which next year's club must strive to beat.

Masque and Wig

President	Don Tousley
Vice-President	Eleanor Hallam
Corresponding Secretary	Ruth Phillips
Treasurer	Jean Sheppard

This year Mr. Allen's Masque and Wig players have produced several plays characteristic of the usual grand Masque and Wig quality.

This year's Christmas play, "The Cathedral Clock", was produced for the assembly and added the proper feeling to the holiday's festivities.

Aided by several pupils and the first rifle team the club wholeheartedly played "June Mad", an uproarious comedy of young love. This was enthusiastically received as are all the Masque and Wig productions.

The club enjoyed an unprecedented spirit of cooperation in all its activities.

Music Night

Music night entitled "Voices of Freedom", was presented under the direction of Mr. Arkwell. After an overture by the High School orchestra, there was a procession of girls carrying shields representing forty-eight states. Then, members of the Glee Club and chorus sang patriotic numbers. Following this, some countries were illustrated very effectively by people dressed in beautiful native costumes.

In the finale the entire cast sang "United Nation on the March" after which the audience and cast sang the "Star Spangled Banner". This was a perfect ending to such an inspiring program.

Imprint

The year of 1943-44 has brought many important changes to the Imprint. First, the new paper has a more professional appearance and has contained almost three times as much material as last years.

Since the new paper has been printed locally, the news was far more up-to-date, and at times the Imprint ran special first releases, such as, class elections, etc. An effort has been made to keep the editorials bright and not "too preachy" and the sports page has been filled with many more better written articles. The greatest improvement has been in the features. "Peekin" has been twice its former length. Moreover, many new columns; such as, "Aunt Pruny, True Confessions, Teachers off the Platform, Library notes, As She Sees Him, As He Sees Her, Lyric Suggestions, and Service Stripes" were instituted.

Besides these important improvements, the Imprint has been sent to seventy-five service men of the class of 1943 and the Imprint hopes to be able to continue this important service for boys of 1944.

Junior Red Cross

PresidentShirley Webster
Vice-PresidentJoanne Higgins
SecretaryBarbara Bishop
TreasurerBarbara Eldredge
SponsorMiss Sachs

The Junior Red Cross started an active year with 100 percent in its annual school membership drive.

We next conducted a successful book drive. Three hundred books were carried off by the Motor Corps, and one hundred kept here to fill the shelves of a recreation room book case made by the woodworking classes.

During the year we have made several utility bags. These are sent to embarkation points.

Another one of our tasks has been to assemble names, addresses and rankings of graduates of M. H. S. who are now in the service. We then send these boys copies of the "Imprint".

In February we ran our annual dance and later in the spring closed the year's activities with a drive for hospital recreation room equipment.

Senior Speaker's Bureau

President	John Cogan
Vice-President	Barbara Willis
Secretary	Barbara Lange
Treasurer	Cabot Easton

You may recognize these students as those who introduce the guest speakers at our assemblies. Each member takes his turn, thus gaining much more confidence in himself when speaking from the stage. Later in the year there is to be an assembly at which Speakers Bureau, in collaboration with the Glee Club, will present excerpts from famous historic speeches. Many of the members will participate under the able direction of the club's advisor, Miss McNamara.

Outing Club

President	Arthur Whitman
Secretary	Jean Barr

The members of the Outing Club enjoyed participating in many social activities. On Thanksgiving Eve there was a Victory Dance held in the school gym. During the February vacation the club went bowling at Wakefield, had a hay ride and went on a roller-skating party at the Balla-rue. The members are looking forward to good times next year.

Brush and Palette Club

PresidentBarton Joy

Secretary-TreasurerNancy Deering

The Brush and Palette Club celebrates its second anniversary this year. To comply with the war effort, as last year, the boys are continuing with their camouflage work. We have many newly-chosen members under the supervision of the older members of the club. Since our director, Miss Dowling, has been ill for some time, the activities of the club have been temporarily curtailed. However, we have had some interesting club meetings, including sketching from models in colorful Spanish costumes. Our assembly plans and trips have been postponed, but the club has accomplished much in spite of all the handicaps. After having a very successful start, the Brush and Palette hopes to become a permanent member of our school activities.

This year the Melrose Rifle Club has had a busy season engaging in the annual series of Postal Matches and an intramural match under the capable direction of Mr. Mansur and Mr. Allen. The club has been divided into two groups: the first team comprised of ten men is under the direction of Mr. Allen while the remaining members are coached by Mr. Mansur. Many boys have completed National Rifle Association rating and Army qualifications for marksmanship.

Beverlie Benson	Gail Lovejoy
Roger Brand	John Mahoney
Carolyn Cryan	Ruth Rundlett

Faculty AdvisorsMiss Hickey, Mr. Wilson

This year the War Stamp Council has sold over $18,000 in War Stamps and Bonds. This, we feel, is a record well-worth the time the Council has put in.

With Mal Allen and Shirley Johnson rotating in the position of taking orders and recording each room's amount, Carolyn Cryan taking money, counting and checking it, and Al Dragone, John Mahoney and Roger Brand giving out stamps and making out the orders each week, the selling end was taken care of.

Ruth Rundlett kept the school's percent record by checking off the names of those in the school who bought each day. Beverlie Benson kept the records for the weekly and monthly totals of each home room. Gail Lovejoy took bond orders which Mr. Wilson bought from the post office at the end of each week.

The Stamp Council feels that the school has been very cooperative as well as patriotic.

Student Council

PresidentMalcolm Allen

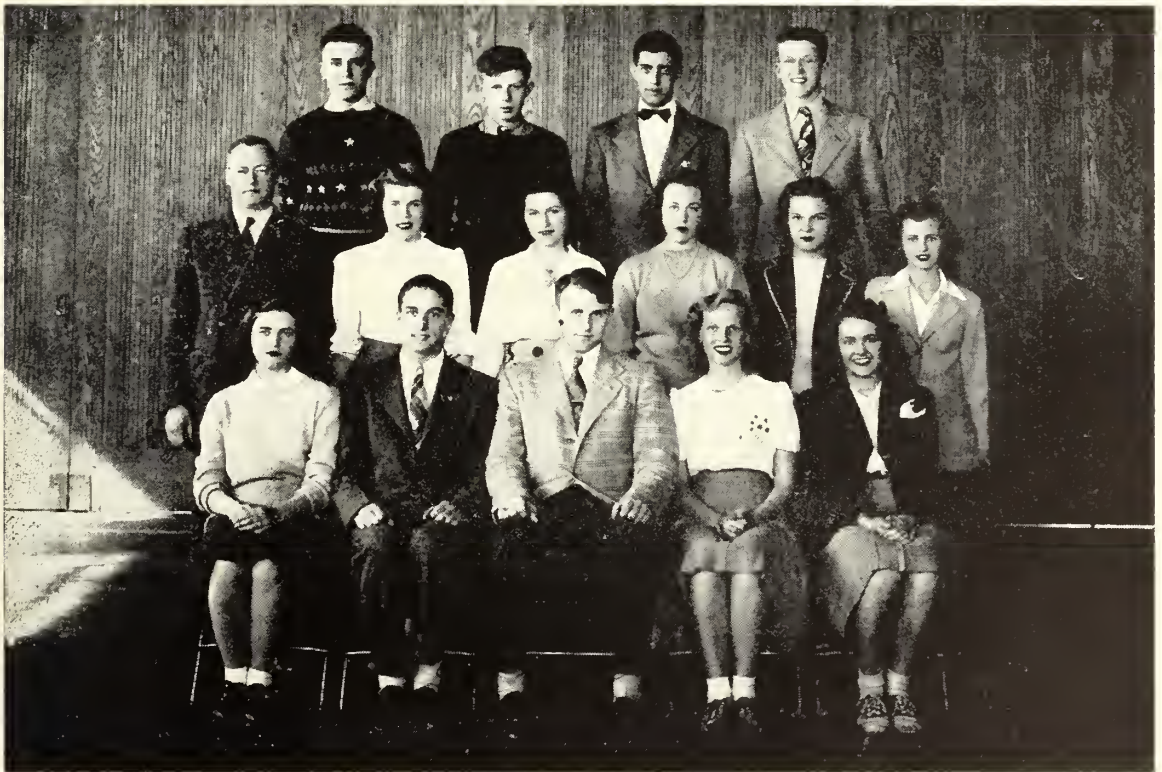

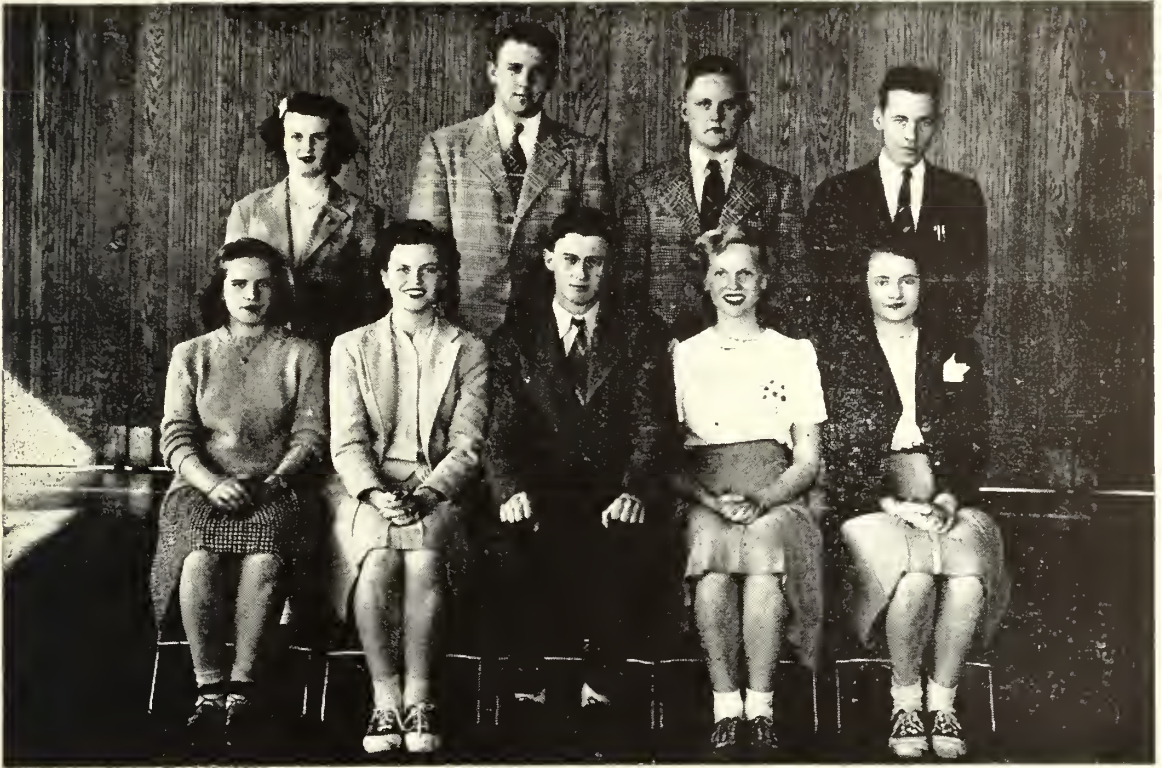

SecretaryShirley Johnson

Under the guidance of Mr. Wilder, the Student Council has made great strides this year.

The purpose of the Council is to present the students' views and reactions concerning school problems to the principal. He, in turn, explains the school administration's point of view and often asks our suggestions regarding problems which confront him. The varied ideas are discussed, and, if necessary, committees are chosen to seek additional material, in order that intelligent discussions may take place.

The Council is composed of the twelve class officers, and two members of each class, elected by their classmates. These twenty members meet once every two weeks, and oftener if the occasion demands.

The students of the school, in this way, have a chance to voice their opinions and state their thoughts through their representatives.

Cheer Leaders

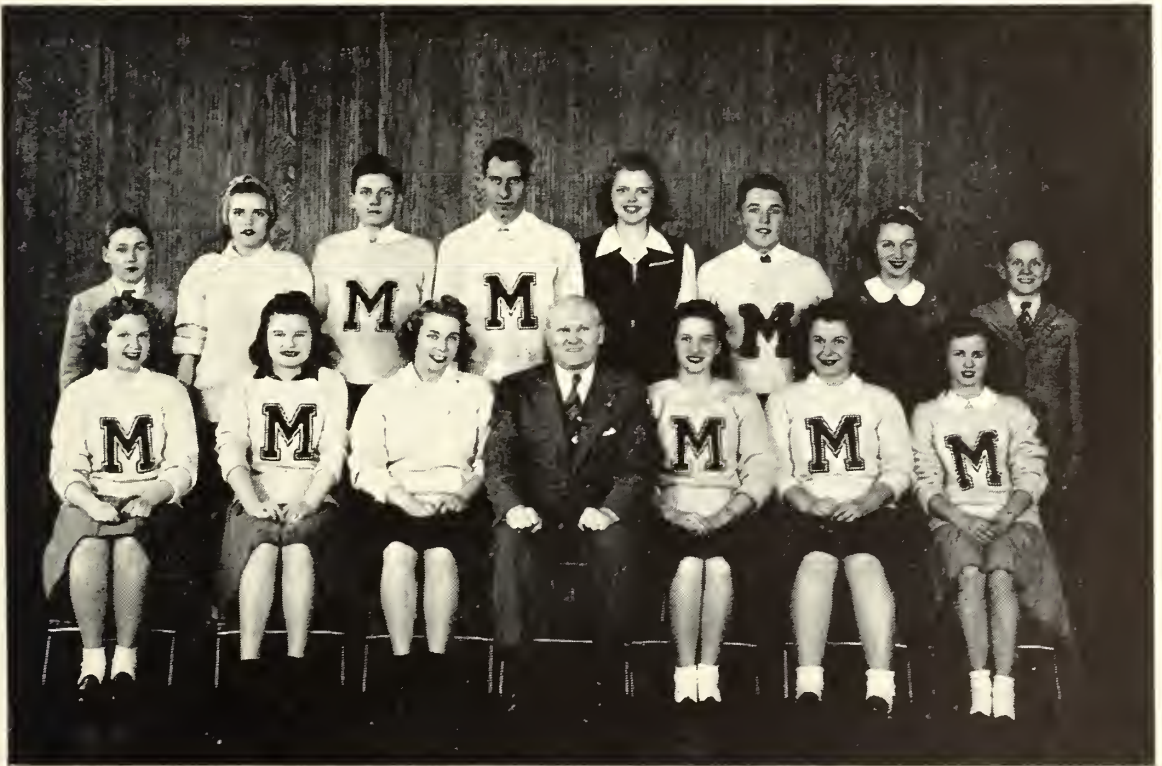

1944 saw another successful year for the cheer leaders of M. H. S. In continuing the practice initiated last year, girls, as well as boys, were chosen from early fall tryouts to be cheer leaders. Five girls and the same number of boys were selected to make up the first team. In addition to the regular group a number of substitutes were selected.

The regulars led the cheers throughout the season, and the substitutes assisted as soon as they had become acquainted with the various cheers.

The cheer leaders were active at all home games, and at all the out of town games they were able to attend.

The regular squad was composed of the following:

Girls: Althea Bennett, Olive Brady, Carol Campbell, Elinor Lantz, and Patricia Taylor. Boys: Richard Moorecroft, Richard Flannigan, Donald Tousley, Robert Wells, and William McGourty.

Athletics 1944

Football

Coach	David Gavin
Captain	Carlton Ward
Manager	Raymond Swift

This year, the football team completed its second successive undefeated-untied season, running its winning streak to nineteen games. At the same time, the Red Raiders picked off the Mystic Valley Championship, and were elevated to Class "A" in the State Rating. With marked dominance over all its adversaries, Melrose's "hipper dipper" and "razzle dazzle" plays, along with box-formation spinners and laterals, the Raiders baffled the opposition 157-7 in points!

The team was sparked on by its able, untiring captain, Carl Ward. Mal Allen missed much of the season because of a broken foot, but the line was strong with Bob McGrath, Andy Williams, Bob Driscoll, Alden Murphy, Ralph Knight, Joe Sheridan and Dick Healy. The Sheridan to Troy passing combination became well known among Melrose's opponents. Line plunger full-back Forbes, Quarter-back Brennan, and right-half Sowle backed up passer and kicker Walter Sheridan in the backfield. With ample reserves, the Red Raiders could not have asked for a better season.

Melrose Hockey Team

Co-captains	Bob Lloyd and Mal Allen
Coach	Dave Gavin

Prospects for a successful team did not appear to be very good as the season started, but by continuous practice, fighting spirit, and the splendid training of coach Gavin, they proved to be the surprise team in the G. B. I. League.

During the regular league schedule the team lost one game to Stoneham by the small margin of 1-0 and played a 2 to 2 tie with Rindge. This resulted in a first place tie with Medford when regular schedules had been completed. Each team won their playoff match and met in the final game to decide the championship. After a hard fought game Medford finished on the long end of a 6-4 score. Statistics showed Melrose had the highest scoring line in the league as well as two of the best defense-men. These five players were selected for the G. B. I. all-scholastic team.

Prospects for next year are excellent as the entire first team, with the exception of Mal Allen and Bob Lloyd, will return. Experience gained by the squad should provide ample replacement for others who graduate.

Basketball Team

Co-CaptainsKenneth Battles, Alan Leland

ManagerWilliam McGonagle

After a year of intramural basketball and a few games last year, basketball had a much better year at M. H. S. during the 1944 season. The team played a total of twelve games. The team made the best showing of any Melrose team in years, winning seven games.

"Doc" Clark had a good team under his guidance and the record shows it. Ken Battles, Zeke Leland and Bud Niles saw most of the action. George Sowle, Bud Hennigar Joe Spears, Andy MacLachlan and Stuart Holmes were the men who did their part in the games when the occasion called for them. The team made a trip to New Hampshire to play Exeter Academy. We lost, but we gave Exeter a good game.

All the boys on this year's team wish the coming teams the best of luck and success in their new position in the Middlesex League.

Cross Country

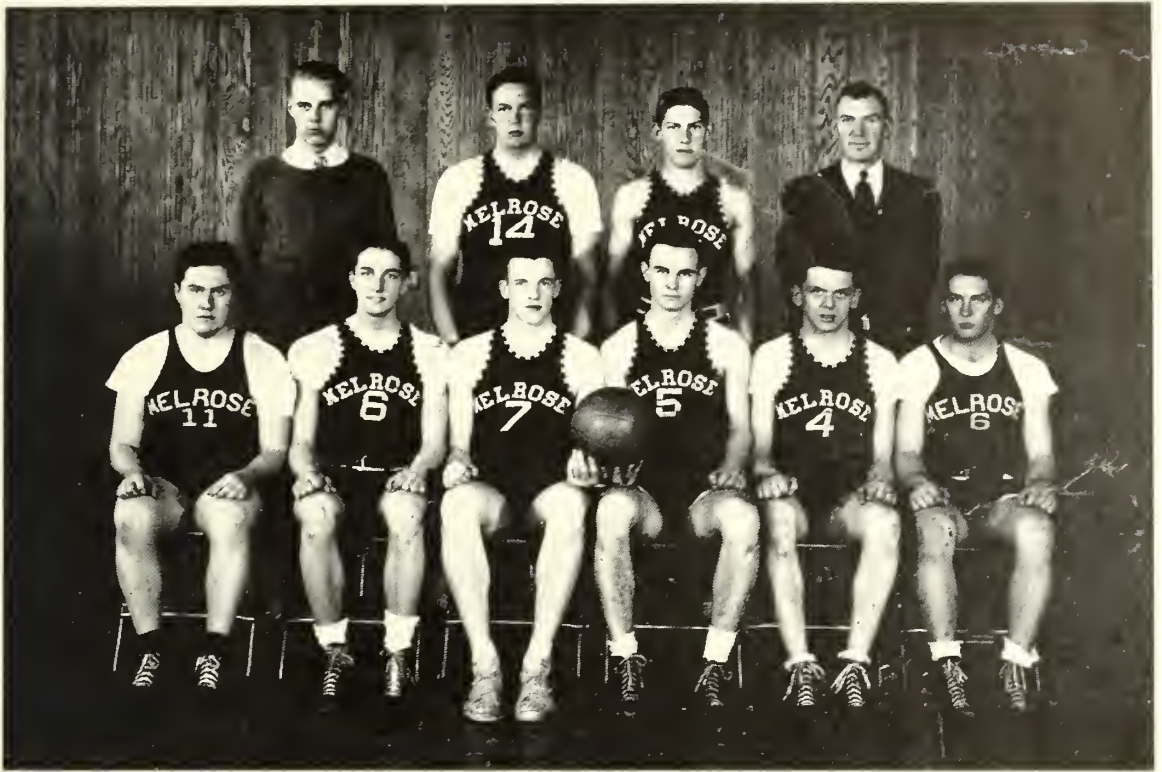

CouchDoc Clark

CaptainJack Cogan

ManagerWayne Gfroerer

The 1943 Cross Country Team added another year of outstanding successes to their sixth undefeated season. Led by record-breaking Don Maher, Dan Grant, and Captain Jack Cogan, the harriers met great success in the regular schedule of dual competition and climaxed a winning season by once again capturing the State Championship. It was due to the expert guidance and training of Doc Clark that the already well known Melrose team sustained its excellent reputation. Fleet-footed Don Maher broke well established records at Saugus, Exeter, Brookline, St. Johns Prep School, South Boston, and our own home course record.

Jack Cogan, Don Maher, Dan Grant, Wes Locke, Len Winslow, John Cowles, Arnie Thompson, Don Tousley, Dick Barwise, Joe Byrne and manager Wayne Gfroerer made up the championship eleven as once again the team proved that it is capable of remaining undefeated.

Boys' Baseball

Captain Bob Lloyd
Coach David Gavin

With many veterans back this year, and an abundance of rookie talent, Coach Gavin looks forward to a very successful season. With such hurlers as Bud Niles and Ken Battles, and potent hitters as Mal Allen and Dick Keohane, prospects look very hopeful. Included in this veteran group are Bob Lloyd, first base; Peter Olsen, second base; and Wendy Forbes, third base. With a few breaks, this should be a successful, if not a championship club.

Track

Judging from the performance of his indoor track team this winter, Coach Bill Benedict can expect a banner showing by M.H.S. candidates in the forthcoming spring meets. He has built the nucleus of a fine balanced squad from the champions of last year.

The sprint distances, (100, 220 and short relays), will be handled by Dick Eldredge, George Kumpel, Tiny Thompson and Fred Hendriksson.

The middle distances will be ably represented: Capt. Al Dragone, state outdoor 440-yard champ of last year, should continue his winning ways of the past seasons in the quarter-mile; Dan Grant and Jack Cogan are probabilities for the 880; these boys, having competed in indoor track, are in fine shape for the coming season.

Wes Locke, state indoor 1000-yard champ, and Don Maher, cross-country star of last year, should be winners in the one-mile event.

In the field events, Dick Barwise is counted on to garner the high jump points for the team. This lad, being state high jump champ, should encounter little opposition. About seven boys will be represented in the running broad jump.

It is also expected that there are many underclassmen who will make an admirable showing. All in all, this should be a championship year for a champion track team.

Girls' Basketball

A great many girls turned out for basketball this year, especially from the Sophomore Class. The squad was made up mostly of Juniors and Seniors with the exception of these Sophomores: Barbara Eldredge, Nancy Nesper, and Nancy Murray.

The Varsity 1st Team, captained by Ella Giovino, and the Varsity 2nd Team, captained by Bunny Lossone, were so equally matched that no definite teams were kept throughout the year. Although the girls did not win every game, their teamwork and spirit were of the best.

The high-scorers of the year were Sophie Fondulis and Gail MacHugh, followed closely by Eleanor Kelley, and Joan Gardner.

Girls' Field Hockey Team

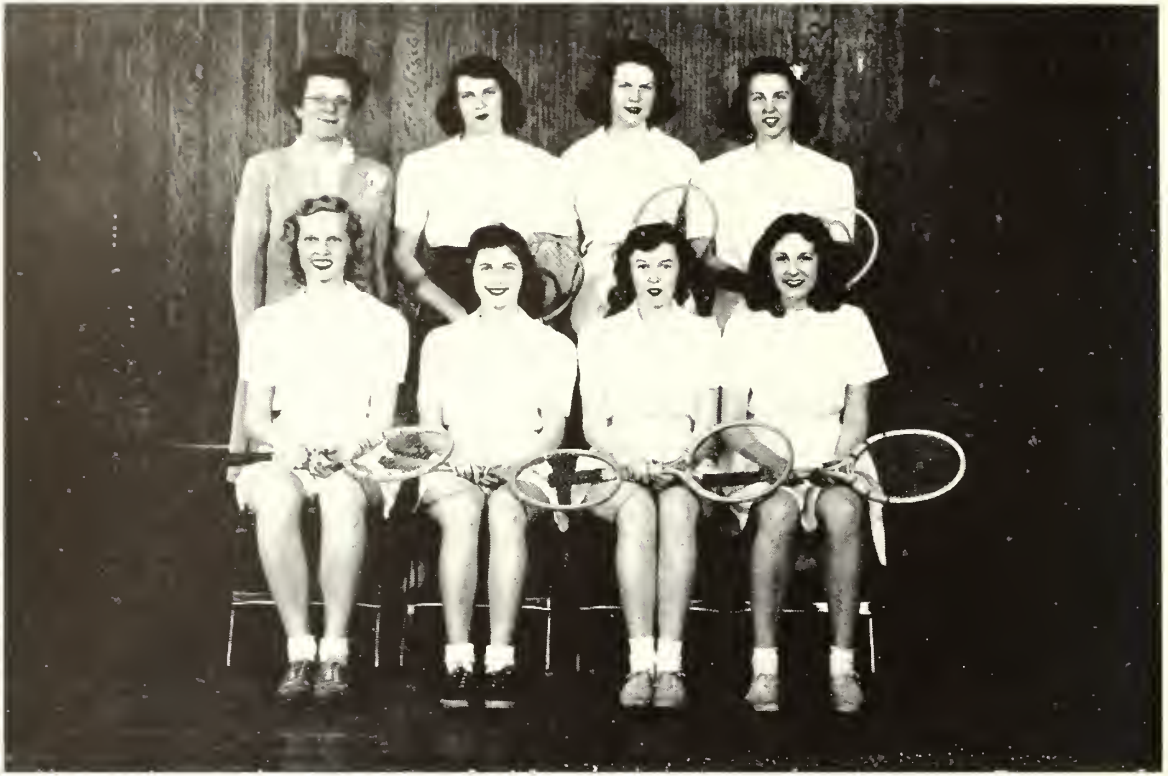

Despite many surprising upsets, the Field Hockey Team, through long hours of practice, has achieved success.

Victorious over undefeated Arlington, they marched over Concord, Lexington, and Reading; tied Stoneham and Belmont, and lost only to Winchester.

Our High-scorer was Carol Campbell, who scored eight goals, aided by Florence Cicoria, Carol Brown and Bunny Lossone.

The outstanding Seniors who were on the Varsity were: Carol Campbell, Carol Brown, Bunny Lossone, Barbara Tucker, Florence Cicoria, Captain Betty Lemont, Shirley Woodman, Sophie Fondulis, Shirley Holt, Patricia Mead, and Virginia Bower.

Girls' Tennis Team

Melrose High pupils are very well known for their participation in numerous sports. Tennis is not to be left out. In past years our girls have proven themselves worthy of all praise. Among these we have: Gail MacHugh, Virginia Lord, Louise Davis, Shirley Holt, Barbara Tucker, Lorraine Karston, Barbara Eldredge, Shirley Johnson, Jean Stearns and Irene MacKenzie. We are positive these girls will uphold our reputation.

Among our opponents are: Malden, Concord, Medford, Lexington, Arlington, Winchester, and Belmont.

Girls' Baseball Team

Not only do the boys have a strong baseball team but the girls also excel in this game. The girls will bat their way to victory and hope to have an undefeated season. Out of a squad of forty-eight there will be seen the following seniors who are well-known in sport circles: Carol Jean Brown, Bunny Lossone, Sophie Fondulis, Betty Lemont, Shirley Woodman, and Carol Campbell.

With Arlington, Winchester, and Lexington to be played, we will expect some lively competition.

Class Day

1944

Marshall's Address

Parents, Teachers, and Friends:

We, the Class of 1944, wish to extend to you our most hearty welcome.

For four long, arduous years we strived to attain the goal which, in 1940, seemed far away, but which we have now reached. To you, our parents and teachers, we owe much, and our sincerest appreciation goes forth to you who have guided us through our high school career.

Today, however, we would like to present to you the highlights of our illustrious past, and we hope that you will enjoy with us the program of the Class of 1944.

History of the Class of 1944

WALTER AMADON

Parents and friends, it is my pleasant task today to review for you and for my classmates the high lights of our four years in Melrose High School. In these years, we have had a great deal of fun along the way as we have devoted ourselves to our major task of acquiring knowledge. And now as we look back over the days crowded with activity and sum up our accomplishments, we hope to feel assured that we have made the most of our opportunities, for the world, in which we now take our places side by side with those far older and wiser than we, is calling youth and setting great tasks before them.

We entered the stately portals of dear old M.H.S. on September 9, 1940 with the usual "Freshie" look on our faces. But before long we settled down and went about our work and play in a more dignified manner. We started our activities by electing Shirley Johnson President of the Freshman Girls' Club which was under the direction of Miss Sachs. Many of these glamorous girls seated here on the stage today were members of that group. John Cowles was president of a very promising group of actors and actresses in the Cloak and Plume Society. Don Tousley appeared in "The Gondoliers", the operetta which was presented in that year. Charlie Law's Freshman football team showed great promise for coming seasons.

After a summer's vacation, we entered our Sophomore year and started things off with a bang by electing Malcolm Allen President of our class; Shirley Johnson, Vice-President; Carol Jean Brown, Secretary; and Peter D'Arrigo, Treasurer. Taking a peek at the sports season, we find that football made a very good record under Mr. Poole with Carlton Ward and Douglas Hallahan representing our class on the team. That winter Mal Allen was on the first hockey squad that won the New England Championship. Wes Locke was a member of the cross country team, and Allan Dragone ran his way into a position on the track team. Bob Lloyd and Dick Keohane played on the first baseball team.

In the musical field, June Tuell, Ernest Graves and Don Tousley added their voices to the successful operetta, "Rio Rico".

At the end of our Sophomore year in June 1942, Mr. Sprague, after twenty-four years of loyal and devoted service, retired as Headmaster of Melrose High School.

In the fall, with Mr. Wilder as our new principal, we entered our Junior year. Those chosen to lead our class were Malcolm Allen, Chief; Bob McGrath, Next-in-Command; Carol Jean Brown, Bookkeeper; and Barbara Tucker, Money-Tender. This year a Student Advisory Council was formed composed of class officers and of representatives from the student body at large. The purpose of this group was to bring about better understanding and cooperation between the faculty and the students. Our representatives on this group were Shirley Johnson and Peter D'Arrigo. Another new organization formed this year was the War Stamp Council. The purpose of this group was to make War Stamps and Bonds available to every student and to make the greatest possible contribution to the war effort by promoting the sale of the stamps and bonds. The Council consisted of eight members — our representatives being Allan Dragone, Shirley Johnson, and Malcolm Allen.

In the line of athletics, we had a big year. Dave Gavin took over complete charge of our football team and produced a championship eleven. The boys won the State Class B title by an undefeated, untied season. The Junior class was well represented on this team by Mal Allan, Shorty Ward, Doug Hallahan, Bob McGrath, Wally Sheridan, Andy Williams, Ralph Knight, Leo Troy, and Howard Corkum. The hockey team which took second place in the Greater Boston League was aided by three members of our class: Bob Lloyd, Howie Corkum, and Mal Allen. Looking in on Doc, we find that his cross country team won the State Championship aided by Wes Locke, John Cogan, and Joe Byrne; and his basketball team made up mostly of Juniors finished a good season. Members of our class on this team were Mansfield Niles, Allan Leland, and Ken Battles.

The Junior girls, not to be outdone by the boys, placed two members on the varsity basketball team. To Betty Lemont and Shirley Woodman went this honor.

On the track team, Wes Locke, Don Maher, Al Dragone, and Dick Barwise helped finish a successful season. Wes and Don were members of the four-man relay team that won the two-mile State Relay Championship, and Al won the State Class B 300-yard title. In baseball, in addition to Bob Lloyd and Dick Keohane who played the previous year, Bud Niles, Mal Allen, Irving Goldenfield, Ken Battles, and Bud Hallahan held up our class honor.

A very successful operetta, "Ermine", was presented this year with many members of our class taking part. June Tuell, Austin Shute, John Tourtillot, Ernest Graves, John Cowles, Robert Collins, and Don Tousley all helped to make the program a good one. The Masque and Wig Society presented their annual play entitled, "Big-Hearted Herbert" in which Don Tousley, Proctor Coffin, and Bob Todd took parts.

At last, we entered our Senior year. The war was being waged all over the world and conditions were very uncertain. During this past year, nineteen members of our class have been inducted into the armed forces and are now serving our country in many branches of the army and navy and air corps. Their names shall forever be inscribed at the top of our roll of honor.

However, surmounting many difficulties imposed by the war, we proceeded in much the same manner as in previous years. Mal Allen was elected President for the third consecutive year; Bob McGrath was elected Vice-President; June Mitchell, Secretary; and Bud Niles, Treasurer. Shirley Johnson and Peter D'Arrigo were again our representatives on the Student Advisory Council, and Mal Allen, Al Dragone, and Shirley Johnson returned as our members on the War Stamp Council. Our class, besides giving many members to the armed forces, has participated wholeheartedly in the support of our stamp and bond sales; and during the two years in which the Stamp Council has been active, we have bought the sum of $10,600 in United States War Bonds and Stamps.

Dave Gavin's football team completed one of the most successful seasons in the history of Melrose High School by finishing second in Class A with a second year of undefeated, untied football. The only new members on this squad were Joe Sheridan and Bob Driscoll. The hockey team finished second again with Leo Troy, Byron Balfour, and Roger MacDonald gaining honors with Bob Lloyd and Mal Allen. The basketball team also had its most successful season in many years with Bill Henderson, Bud Hennigar, and Joe Spears ably assisting the members of last year.

The girls turned out a good basketball and field hockey team which were composed of many members of our class. Betty Lemont was captain of the field hockey team ably assisted by Carol Jean Brown, Bunny Lossone, Elinor Kelly, Florence Cicoria, Barb Tucker, Shirley Woodman, Sophie Fondulis, Virginia Bower, Shirley Holt, June Hobart, Pat Mead, Carol Campbell, Shirley Johnson, and June Mitchell. The girls on the basketball team were Betty Lemont, Ella Giovino, Lorraine Karston, Gail MacHugh, Joanne Gardner, Sophie Fondulis, Shirley Woodman, Elinor Kelly, Bunny Lossone, and June Mitchell.

The cross country team completed another excellent season by winning the State Championship paced by Don Maher, Jack Cogan, Wes Locke, John Cowles, Joe Byrne, and Dick Barwise.

Peter D'Arrigo was the President of Hi-Y, and Shirley Johnson of Girls' Club, both of which were under the capable supervision of Mac.

The Masque and Wig presented "June Mad" with Olive Brady and Don Tousley in the leading roles supported by Alma Cefalo, John Cogan, Ted Appel, and Bill Condell. Instead of an operetta this year, a "Music Night" was conducted. Senior participants in this were: June Tuell, Ernest Graves, Laurice Bartlett, Don Tousley, Bob Turkington, John Cowles, Carl Lindstrom, and Robert Collins.

At its annual concert May 5, the Melrose High School Band completed its 10th successful season under the capable leadership of Miss Mont. Many good musicians have come forth during this period, but three of the best are in our class — Bob Turkington whose talent as a trumpet player is exceptional, and Shirley Kendall who shows great promise as a violinist, and Ted Wells who excels on the piano.

Joanne Wilder has been an excellent editor-in-chief for the Imprint this past year, and under her capable leadership the Imprint won second prize in a contest for the best commercially-printed school paper in New England. John Cogan, as editor-in-chief of the Log, Cabot Easton and Dick Eldridge as co-business managers, and Phyllis Bever as art editor have done a wonderful job in making the Log a symbol of our school life, and they deserve the highest praise. Allan Dragone was appointed chairman of the Class Day Committee assisted by Shirley Johnson, Junie Mitchell, Mal Allen, and Bud Niles.

It seems as though I have forgotten some insignificant member. Oh! Yes. I know. Walter Amadon sneaked in on that committee somehow.

This year by vote of the student body and faculty Shirley Johnson was chosen as the Melrose High School representative in the D. A. R. Good Citizenship contest. She won this honor by being distinguished in dependability, service, leadership, and patriotism.

Although we have participated in many extra curricular activities and have won numerous championships on the field of play, our great purpose here has been the mastery of our academic subjects with the highest degree of success that each of us is capable of attaining. We have in our class many excellent students. Their high standards of achievement have served to spur each of us on to greater accomplishment.

Our highest ranking students are Ted Wells, Virginia Nowell, and Malcolm Allen. We are proud of them. We are also proud of the fact that seventy-eight members of our class have at some time during their four years been on the High Honor or Honor rolls. Each one of us has been richly benefited by our day by day association in the class room with the keen minds of these our honor students.

One of the coveted awards in our school is the Washington-Franklin certificate given to the student in the Junior or Senior class who by competitive examination shows the greatest proficiency in the study of United States History. This award was won last year by Jack Cogan, a member of our class. Jack's outstanding merit as a student was further recognized this year by his being chosen to speak on the radio program The Junior Town Meeting of the Air.

I have now brought our records up-to-date. Thus endeth the first chapter of our history. But history is a continuous stream ever flowing onward. The chronicle of our school days will merge into that of the future and become one with it. We shall lay aside our student gowns and go into the world to devote our individual talents and skills to making the next chapter in this the most critical of all history-making epochs.

Statistics of the Class of 1944

SHIRLEY WOODMAN

Parents and friends, having pored over the records of the class of 1944, and having delved deeply into its past, I come before you now, worn and weary, to report my findings and to announce the various celebrities of our class. Some students have won their titles as a result of arduous struggle, while others—well, you will soon be able to judge for yourselves the appropriateness of our choices.

If these people will rise as I call their names, perhaps they will be able to prove or defend their elections.

Before meeting our “mosts” and “bests”, let us become acquainted with Mr. Average, the typical student. He stands 5' 6", weighs 134 lbs., and wears a size 7½ shoe. His favorite subject is Biology, his favorite sport—swimming. That striking tie you notice is predominantly blue—his favorite color. He is often seen chewing a stick of Beechnut gum or taking time out for “the pause that refreshes”, that glass of Coca-Cola. Contrary to popular opinion, he prefers brunettes. If you were to join this 17-year-old youth on a Friday night date, you would find him dancing. On extra-special occasions Mr. Average sends his girl a corsage of roses.

The bluffers, athletes, actors, and other outstanding personalities have been chosen by our class.

Malcolm Allen, besides being the class president, is the Most Popular and Most Athletic boy. Mal certainly deserves credit for he has also maintained better-than-average marks; as his part of Essayist tomorrow night proves.

Our Most Popular girl, Shirley Johnson, with a friendly smile for everyone, has been active in athletics, War Stamp Council, Student Council, and has presided over Girls' Club.

Now glancing at girls' athletics which are very important in the life of our high school, we find as our representative that peppy miss—Carol Jean Brown. Carol Jean, outstanding in field hockey and softball, has already secured employment in the office of a local dentist.

Lorraine Karston's cheerful disposition has gained for her the title of Best-natured girl. The good humor of the opposite sex is exemplified by Robert Driscoll.

I am sure you will all agree with our choice of Barbara (or Bunny) Lossone as the Best-looking girl. However, one dissenting vote might have been cast by William French, for he is the Class Woman Hater.

Our Best-looking boy is Kenneth Battles, who is now training with the New York Yankees' Baseball Club. Kenny attracts all the feminine attention except that of Carol Wells, who isn't impressed by any entrancing male.

If you need assistance on the dance floor, consult our experts, Barbara McIntyre and Walter Sheridan. Wally is also known for his equally good footwork on the football team.

The outstanding dramatic ability of Donald Tousley has made him Class Actor. Don's grin and sense of humor are irresistible off as well as on the stage.

Our Class Actress, Gail MacHugh, will have to stand twice as long, for she has also gained a niche in our Hall of Fame as the Most Original.

Speaking of acting, we have another type of performer in our midst. The involved explanations of Leo Troy qualify him to be our Most Successful Bluffer. However, Peter D'Arrigo doesn't seem to be so successful at fooling others. Although Pete's efforts aren't always in vain, he does not obtain desired results very often.

Even though Lorraine Karston may claim that Gail MacHugh is her "pet hate", and vice versa, don't be deceived; they are really 1944's inseparable pals!

No — Howard Thomas isn't suffering from a bad sunburn! For a very obvious reason he is our Class Blusher.

However, there are other students well-known for similar weaknesses. Unless someone assists Phyllis Dutton to her feet, she may not be able to rise, as she is our Most Bashful girl. Although Bob McGrath may be our Most Bashful boy, he wasn't backward on the football field. He is now serving in the Air Corps.

That illustrious, industrious, gentleman, George William Perkins, has gained the distinction of being our Most Fastidious member.

Who caught the fish that was so-o-o big? Austin Shute, our most eloquent Exaggerator.

To add a note of seriousness to our activities, I present Theodore Wells, voted our Class Genius; perhaps as a result of also being our Most Studious member. Ted, well-known for his musical talent, lends distinction to our class as the valedictorian for 1944.

While mentioning music, I should like to introduce our Class Songster, June Tuell. Perhaps you heard June sing, when she was featured in a recent Orchestral Concert.

In every class there is one person destined to advance. Now I am referring to Alan Dragone, who we believe is the Most Likely to Succeed.

Whenever our morale is low, and our over-taxed brains require relaxation, we call upon Doris Luti, Class Poet, for a light rhyme or jingle.

The most ardent Swing Fan is Raymond Swift. Ray, I've been told, enjoys the Dixieland music of Bob Crosby.

The lad who enjoys charming feminine company is Mansfield Niles. Bud's efforts to charm have been appreciated, for he has been appointed Class Ladies' Man. Take a bow, Bud!

I don't know whether the girls or boys are responsible, but Joan Gardner has been voted Class Flirt.

Next we have Janet Pratt, our Class Saint. However, we've been informed that Janet has a sense of humor that belies true saintliness.

If you ever want your portrait painted make an appointment with Barton Joy. As Class Artist, he is well qualified to do the job. Right now Barton has plenty of opportunity to find subject in the Navy.

We nominated Joan Earl as our Class Giggler. Joan appreciates even the worst puns. Is she giggling now?

A great deal of the laughter this year has been provided by Richard Simpson, the Class Wit. Dick is now amusing fellow-sailors in the Navy.

Looking back ten years over the records of class day programs, it is interesting to note that I am the first girl statistician. Perhaps that is the penalty for being considered the Most Dignified.

As the last bell finished ringing, it was usually Stuart Holm who entered the room. Although Stew may be our Least-Often-On-Time, we hope he has reformed, as there are no "last minutes" in the Marines.

If placed end to end, the class as a whole would stretch 16,830 inches, or 1,402 feet. The total weight would be 576,000 ounces, or 18 tons. The class has lived a total of 4,335 years. In other words, that would take us back to 2391 B.C., or forward to 6279 A.D. Such dates remind us of the staggering figures people read of so constantly today; hence I shall leave any further computations to those who aspire to be government statisticians or future collectors of the Internal Revenue.

Prophecy

LORRAINE KARSTON

Yo! Ho! Mates, lend an ear.
Settle back and stow your gear.
The future that you have in store,
Takes me to nineteen fifty-four.
Though a decade has passed since we sailed to sea
Many things have happened to you and to me.
Come with me on a world-wide cruise.
Put on your traditional navy blues.
Now that we're here present — all told
The prophecy to you I will unfold.

JANUARY 28, 1954

We docked our ship in the harbor and traveled inland to see the sights of New York City.

In the heart of the "Great White Way" we went to Ernest Graves' and Donald Tousley's famous theatre, the "Rialto".

Sitting in our box we saw Mayor Jack Cogan and his distinguished guests: Senator Malcolm Allen, Representative Cabot Easton, Professor Richard Fifield, Doctor William Henderson, and the famous District Attorney, Austin Shute. Directly behind Mayor Cogan's box sat the President of the First National Bank, Dick Eldredge and a group of his trustees, June Hobart, Phillip Freeman, Jean Hathaway, John Hadley, and Barbara Lange.

After the show we procured tickets to see some of the famous radio broadcasts.

At station WNAC the Philharmonic Orchestra conducted by Theodore Wells presented a stirring program. First violinist, Shirley Kendall, rendered the ever beautiful "Handel Sonata in D Major" with an encore of "Oh! Danny, Boy!" Other outstanding members of the orchestra were Irving Goldenfield, trumpeter; Arnold Garrad, clarinet; Jane Da'le, pianist; and June Tuell, vocalist. With hearts uplifted we went to station WCOP where the famous actresses, Olive Brady and Alma Cefalo, were under contract to enact the serial "John's Other Wife". Leaving here, we went to the remaining station, WEEL, where the Bob Hope of the day, Buddy Foss, introduced the Peter D'Arrigo food products program. The name band of Bud's program was Bob Turkington and his "Turkey Trotters" with the croon sensation, Richard Kelley.

Traveling along Broadway we stopped to see the style show in Louis Bacigalupo's famous gown shoppe, "The House of Louis".

In the far corner of the lavishly furnished room Nancy Deering, Phyllis Bever, Marjorie Gallant and Joanne Orton, display sketches of forthcoming fashions.

The models showed some clever creations. Audrey Phillips, in flame red, Marjorie Price in a cool green suit, Louise Boyd modeling the latest in bathing creations, Carol Jean Brown in a blue negligee and Eleanor Ashman in a sport coat.

Mr. Bacigalupo informed us that he imported his materials from the concern of Carl Lindstrom and Victor Liebermann, whose motto is L.S.M.F.T. — L.S.M.F.T. — Lindstrom Sells Mighty Fine Textiles.

As the busy day waned, the crew returned to our ship, the Jolly Roger O!

MARCH 26, 1954

While sailing along headed for Mexico, we passed Janice Ford and Betty Allen in their sloop designed by the Henry Kaiser of the era, William Condell, whose shipyards are the largest and most noted in the country.

On board ship were a group of Ambassadors headed on a good-will tour. The Captain, John Cowles, introduced us to them. Ambassadors Mansfield Niles, Lewis Henniger, Joseph Byrnes, Arthur Whitman, and Ronald Winde, all with a distinct cosmopolitan air, enlightened us on international problems.

MARCH 30, 1954

Before entering Mexico City we were taken to the Marion Addison Memorial Hospital to be inoculated for malaria.

Doctor Allan Dragone tried to get us to use the new "Theodore Appel" serum treatment but it was not until two of his staff, Dr. Dick Barwise and Dr. Wayne Gfroerer convinced us of its wonders that we would submit to it — with the immaculate and charming nurses in attendance, Alice Armstrong, Jean Spear, Bette Bray, Beverly Bowman, and Ruth Bolton.

Traveling along the quaint and narrow streets, a large factory looms ahead. On the huge sign over the door in printed black letters it said, "Francis Hardy and Edward Haven's International Glass Blowing Company". After watching the industry in progress we continued on our tour of Mexico.

Dropping anchor several miles down the coast, the crew was invited to rest a few days at the Dude Ranch of Eleanor Fracker and Dorothy Knapp, which we accepted with great pleasure.

We were amazed to find so many people we knew in the section of the world, people who had either established themselves there, or were vacationing.

While we were at the ranch, sitting on the front porch, Paul Feeney and Arthur Bonzagni, professional golfers, waved to us as they headed for the links owned by John Tourtillot and Eugene Fullerton and landscaped by the prominent gardeners, Andy Williams, Joe Sheridan, and Bob Driscoll.

Galloping by, obviously enjoying their vacations, were a group of school teachers, Shirley Caldwell, Joanne Wilder, Laurice Bartlett, and Joan Quirie, who teach young Mexicans in the neighboring town how to speak English.

As the afternoon heat poured down a rickety, yellow ice truck pulled up to the ranch. The driver, Bob Lloyd, with his assistant, Dick Keohane, served us ice water, with the compliments of Uncle Larry Lloyd.

Heading toward the swimming pool we saw grouped around it the leading authors of the day, having a discussion about Marjorie Landkamer's new book, "California Bound". In this group were Ruth Weers, columnist; Ray Swift, comic artist; Virginia Nowell, authoress; Donald Taggart, radio announcer; and James Sweeney, script writer, whose varying points of view presented a spirited argument as you can well imagine.

With good tans and renewed vigor the crew prepared to return to the good ship, the Jolly Roger O!

Travelling toward the coast on way to the ship, we pass through the little village of McGourtyville named after the prominent oil magnate John McGourty who successfully operates the firm of McGourty and Harney. Supervising the workers we saw mounted on spirited white stallions, Bob Rinfret, Roger MacDonald and Peter Olsen, supervised and managed the labor turnover.

Our train steams on to the coast where we board the Jolly Roger O!

APRIL 20, 1954

We drop anchor in New Orleans just in time for the annual Mardi Gras.

The Mayor, Robert Lopez, gives us the key to the city; and we were just in time to see the traditional gala parade in review.

A large, bedecked float glides by. On it is a miniature tennis court with the famous professional doubles players, Virginia Lord and Barbara Tucker versus Shirley Holt and June Mitchell.

The next float represented the seasons of the year with the four Power's snow girls, Ruth Phillips as Winter; Spring, Shirley Woodman; Summer, Phyllis Nielson; and Fall, Dorothy Maguire.

The enthusiastic crowd applauded and cheered.

Directly behind this is another float causing much less attention. This is only natural as we see seated on it — Gail MacHugh, Ella Giovino, Doris Luti, and Mary Kelly!

Although the spectators were all in costume and masked, we were able to recognize a few of the couples. There were Carol Campbell and Frank Johansson, Jackie Jefts and Ronald Winde, Ruth Woodward and Howie Thomas.

We spent a few days at the beautiful home of the fashionable and hospitable bachelor, John Dahl, and then headed back to the Jolly Roger O! We were glad to get back to the ship.

Anchors Aweigh, Hoist up the Sails, Man on the Lookout, Quartermaster at the Wheel — all reporting for duty. Into the glowing sunset, with the salt spray stinging their faces, the crew of the Jolly Roger sail into unknown horizons.

Presentations for 1944

GAIL LEE MACHUGH

Parents, teachers, classmates and friends,
As Miss America I come to you.
From this blessed land of sunshine and flowers,
Beneath friendly skies of azure blue.
I saw Old Glory from coast to coast,
Heard little children laugh and play.
Watched the farmer as he plowed the field,
Saw victory gardens on the way.
Listened to music that filled the air,
A mother's plaintive little tune.
With peaceful smile, I left for awhile,
To be with you this afternoon.

OUR TRIBUTE

A cheer and salute for our classmates,
Who are not with us today.
Answering the call of Uncle Sam,
They silently marched away.
Our boys, like all good Americans
Wanted to do their part,
On Class Day we send this message,
With a prayer in every heart.
We wish you the very best of luck,
For victory is your goal,
I'll ask the class to stand with me,
While I proudly read the roll.

MALCOLM ALLEN (Class President)

(Gavel)

"On him and his high endeavor
The light of praise shall rest forever."

Mal's personality alone would have been enough to win the confidence of the Class of 1944, which made him their President for three years. He fulfilled this trust by his sincere and hearty efforts to lead his class to the heights. A fine scholastic record with high achievements in football, hockey, and baseball top the list of his attainments, making him a three-letter man. His contagious grin and kind word of greeting have caused many a heart to tingle. Mal, you have been a worthy leader of a worthy class, and it is with pride we present to you this gavel.

* * * *

SHIRLEY JOHNSON

(Bouquet)

Few hearts like hers with virtue warmed,
Few hands so many tasks performed.
You were never idle anywhere,
You are someone's idol everywhere.
And to this ideal girl of ours,
We give this tiny bouquet of flowers.

PETER OLSEN, ROGER MACDONALD, HENRY HARNEY,
ROBERT RINFRET, JOHN DAHL

(Kilts)

These laddies come down from the Highlands,
They are strong and sturdily built —
Hoot Mon! If they were real Highlanders,
They should come dressed in a "Kilt".

As leading lady in our play,
You were a shining star.
Like your two brothers at West Point,
Success will take you far.

RALPH KNIGHT, ROBERT WARNER, CARLTON WARD,
RAY SWIFT

(Name Cards)

Winken, Blinken, and Nod one day had a crazy notion,
They look little Ray for Skipper, and crossed the Pacific Ocean.
The Japanese Sandmen met them, with brass band and all —
Told them "Tojo" was waiting for a certain Yankee call.
Don't ask us what happened, or how it came to pass,
It's a "military secret" — they woke up in class!

* * * *

CAROL CAMPBELL, PRISCILLA MOORE, MARY NELSON (Clothes pin dolls)

Carol, Priscilla and Mary hail from our East Side,
Athletic, scientific, and good natured, we point to them with pride.
What gift shall we choose that will fit them all?
Let's name them our pin-up girls and give them a clothes pin doll.

BOYS' BASKETBALL TEAM

(Life Savers)

A tisket — a tasket — they made many a basket,
They were a team hard to beat.
Our "string-up boys" were real life savers,
For them we have a little treat.

GIRLS' BASKETBALL TEAM

("Baskets" of candy)

A tisket — a tasket — we never made a basket,
We never won, but oh, what fun,
And the scores? — they were fantastic!

You carried the pigskin down the field,
From the sidelines we yelled our cheers.
These little gifts bring a message from us,
Good luck to you all in the coming years.

All colors that hit or miss.
You chose them from Esquire, maybe —
But you never had one like this!

To call our Junior Miss.
Judy won, and the Senior prize
Was a Punch-and-Judy doll — like this!

WALTER AMADON, ARNOLD GARRARD

(Monocles)

These are the gentlemen of our class, we'll have you understand,
"I say, old chappies, you are English?" Bluney, aren't they grand?
They have the wit and the culture and the blooming line,
Strike me pink, if we don't think monocles would be fine!

A disposition that is sunny.
June and Jean will never change,
Each one is a little honey.

PETER D'ARRIGO, ROBERT DRISCOLL

(Gum)

Here's Uncle Bob and Cousin Pete,
Alike, but no relation —
They can tell the weirdest tales,

Could talk their way out of a fox hole,
Their tongues never cease to wag
When Bob stops to catch his breath,
Pete will chew the rag.

What a very remarkable pair!
You'll sail through life with the greatest ease —
Like two balloons in the air.

SHIRLEY WOODMAN, BETTY LEMONT

Two little girls in cap and gown,
Talented and dignified.
Fine students, they play the piano and sing,
Like shoes, they walk side by side.

Here's the Frank Sinatra of our class,
Just a handsome little guy.
The girls all squeal when they see
'Swoonderful Kelley and his bow tie.

LOUISE HICKS versus GEORGE KUMPEL

(A Match)

I'm really not a matchmaker, but something should be done
About the romance of these two, that started in Grade One.
By the old Gooch School they tarried, on a tree he carved her name,
Light up this match, Georgie Boy, and rekindle that old flame!

HELEN DIAMOND

(Mirror)

We've traveled all around the map,
Seen styles both old and new,

Class of 1944 Ode

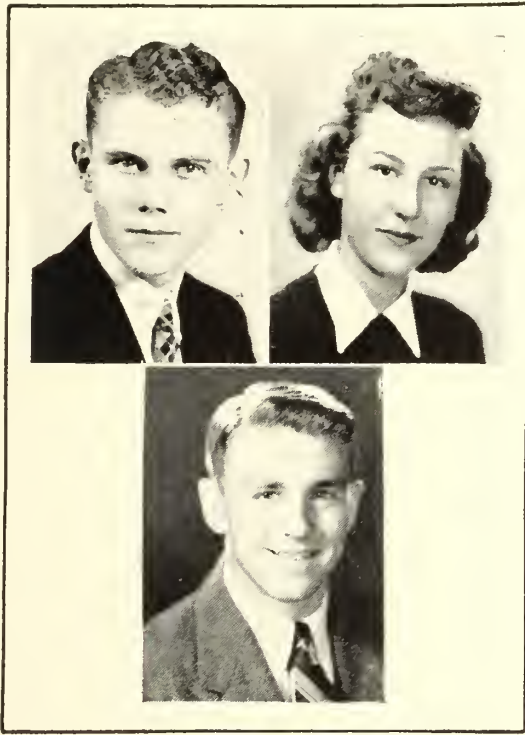

BY THEODORE W. WELLS

O glorious day when battle ends,
And all toward peace and freedom bends,
When learning takes its place again
To help instead of hinder man.

Chorus

We hail Thee as our able Guide,
Whose teachings with us shall abide;
We'll cherish Thee through Life's long course,
As Teacher and Eternal Source.

We owe Thee much for knowledge gained,
For friendships made and goals attained;
And now resolve in service free
To live our lives as taught by Thee.

Graduation 1944

Salutatory

VIRGINIA T. NOWELL

Parents and Friends: You have assembled here tonight to witness the graduation exercise of the class of 1944, in whose behalf I am privileged to extend to you a cordial greeting. This is indeed a momentous occasion for all of us, and today its importance is even greater than in ordinary times. We are stepping from Melrose High School into a world at war, a world in which the average peace-loving American is confronted with great obstacles, thrust upon him and his fellow countrymen by the aggression of ruthless enemies. To aid us in reaching our goal in life, and to help us to persevere in spite of the difficulties we must face, we have the confidence, strength of purpose, and high ideals acquired during our years in Melrose High School. For these, we are truly grateful.

VULCAN'S DAUGHTERS

From time immemorial, the women of the world have been the core and center of the home. The traditional role of woman is aptly described in the poetry of another day:

"For men must work, and women must weep,
So runs the world away."

Countless works of literature have pictured women as the ruler of her home, where in times of war she remained with her family and anxiously watched for the return of her husband, or fearfully awaited the news that he would not come back. Even in times of greatest distress the custom has been for women to remain in their homes, where the love and security they established were as a bright lamp in the window, strengthening the man on the foreign shore and leading him safely home. In these present days of war, however, we have witnessed the breakdown of this tradition. The forgers of the weapons of war are not the grimy workmen of hideous Mars. Today Vulcan's daughters are working on every assembly line in the country. With s'acks and a bandanna, the feminine uniform of war, they operate the lathes, hammer the rivets, and assemble the delicate instruments of modern warfare.

Upon the conversion of the machinery of war into the tools of peace, we will be confronted with the problem of whether women will leave the industrial world. Students of social science fear that at the end of the war, many women now earning high wages will be unwilling to resume their duties in the home. They are apprehensive that the family, the corner-stone of the American way of life, will be destroyed, and with it the whole structure of American society. I must confess that I do not share their foreboding. I do not believe that women will relinquish their traditional role of home-maker for the questionable privilege of competing against men in the occupational arena. I do not believe that women are in industry to stay.

In the first place, women have not surged into all branches of labor because they have become tired of their responsibilities in the home. The war has thrust this problem upon us. America was facing a crisis. Women had to replace the men leaving for service. The need was great, and the response was spontaneous. In addition to meeting the problem of an ever increasing lack of manpower, women undertook these duties from a sincere desire to shorten the war and to give their men the weapons to fight with. If such positions as riveter, welder, or truck-driver had been available to woman in peace time, it is doubtful if she would have accepted them.

It is not simply the enjoyment or novelty of such occupations that is taking women from their homes into defense industries throughout America. The demands of war have been a challenge to them. They have heard the call of duty, and they have answered it. Whether at the lathe or the plow, or in the military and naval services, women have admirably filled the gap in labor. Nevertheless, when these unnatural demands are no longer existent, women will be ready and willing to turn over the problems of industry to the men of the nation. It will be with relief, not reluctance, that they will revert to their pre-war status as home-makers.

In addition to woman's own desire to return to the home, we must consider the necessity for her to do so. A large part of our nation's man power, now scattered throughout the world, will return without employment. The positions which they left, they must recover. The woman must step aside to let the man re-enter his position, for the returned soldier must be given priority on jobs. Few women will be retained for the reason that their talents excel those of the men whom they replaced. When the returning veterans once again throng the markets of labor, woman will gladly turn over to them the calipers and micrometers, conscious of the fact that she has been the understudy and not the star on the stage of industry.

Nor should we be fearful that this strange interlude in the traditional role of woman has unfitted her to play her natural part. In the past, the increased knowledge gained by women never proved to be harmful to the American home. It is reasonable to suppose that women will emerge from their present occupations more intelligent citizens. It also seems certain that they will have gained a greater understanding of their fellow men. Having been given an insight into the world of work, they will more fully understand the problems of the wage-earner and will have a greater appreciation of the value of money. Women will return to their homes with an increased ability to direct the education of their family, since they have acquired a clearer view of the vocational opportunities for their children.

They have also left their imprint on the industries in which they have been employed. They have caused revolutionary changes in the relationship between management and labor. They have insisted upon and obtained cleaner, more sanitary, and more pleasant working conditions. Management has been convinced that money spent on the health and recreation of the worker pays dividends in increased production, fewer accidents, and less absenteeism. The men who return to work will reap the benefit of their impact upon the condition of labor and will bless the day that the women took over.

But the most convincing evidence that women will not remain in industry springs from woman's essential nature. A woman's home is her empire. Here she rules by divine and natural right. Here her greatest influence is felt, her deepest satisfaction enjoyed. Her creative instincts find no outlet in the treadmill labor to which most of the gainful occupations condemn her. Not for a mess of pottage will she barter her rightful heritage, the title of wife and mother.

"The hand that rocks the cradle rules the world" is the age-old tribute to the power she wields over the subjects of her little kingdom. Though she may for a time wear the livery of Mars or work the bellows at the forge of Vulcan, it is to Vesta, the goddess of the home and earth, that she owes her primary allegiance, and at the shrine of Vesta will she worship once again when the dawn of peace dispels the murky shades of war.

Essay

MALCOLM H. ALLEN, JR.

BLUEPRINTS FOR FREEDOM

'And everybody praised the Duke,
Who this great fight did win.

'But what good came of it at last?'
Quoth little Peterkin.

'Why that I cannot tell', said he,
'But 'twas a famous victory.'

On this note of irony does Robert Southey conclude the poem, After Blenheim, in which old Kaspar tells his grandchildren of that great battle where fifty-one thousand men perished in order that Louis XIV of France might not crush the countries of Europe under his despotic heel.

Today a greater battle is being fought, and in the same mood of cynicism many are asking themselves the same questions, "What are we fighting for? What good will come of it?" To these skeptics and doubters, the men of Bunker Hill, of Gettysburg, of San Juan, the Argonne, and Bataan, give a clear and unequivocal answer, "We fought for human freedom". For freedom is never static, never fixed and stable. Like knowledge, as Webster said, it increases by the multiple of its own power, and the blueprint of yesterday's freedom is obsolete and archaic, when the structure of tomorrow's freedom is fashioned from the blood and sweat and tears of today. Yet, the gains of the past are a part of the pattern of the future, and a survey of the blueprints which charted the growth of democracy will show why America's battlefield today encompasses the globe and why we are hopeful that the torch of liberty will send its rays into every corner of the world.

The first blueprint for freedom that defined the boundaries beyond which the arbitrary rule of a monarch might not trespass was presented to King John of England at Runnymede in 1215. There the barons forced their king, with reluctant pen, to sign the Magna Charta, the great document which limited the obligations of the nobles toward the crown, restricted the powers of officers of the law, and gave every accused person the right of trial by a jury of his peers.

During the next five hundred years, this assault upon the citadel of the divine right of kings was followed by stronger and more determined strokes, until on July 4, 1776, the representatives of the thirteen American colonies gave to a startled world the second great document of freedom, the Declaration of Independence. This was no mere attempt to wrest from a despotic king a lessening of his power. It was a repudiation of the very right of the king to rule, a ringing assertion that the right to govern was a power inherent in and consented to by the governed.

Scarcely was the ink of the signers dry, or the blood that was shed to ratify it had soaked into the soil of a free republic, than a new blueprint of freedom guaranteed to all the new republics of America immunity from foreign aggression. The Monroe Doctrine gave testimony to the world that Americans were prepared to expend their resources and to fight, if need be, that the blessings of liberty might be spread and safeguarded from the Canadian border to the tip of Cape Horn. Although the practical politician may declare that the Monroe Doctrine was a measure designed by the United States for her own protection, no one can deny that it was motivated, at least in part, by the idealistic concept of freedom of which America has always been the propagandist. For the first time we declared our willingness to fight for the freedom of others as well as our own.

But the structure of American liberty was not yet complete. The foundation was still unsecure. How could we preach the gospel of equality when a part of our household still groveled in the dismal dungeon of slavery? A new architect of freedom dipped his pen in the blood of brothers and sketched the fourth blueprint of liberty, the Emancipation Proclamation. Again, America had proved that the fight for freedom can never end, that as new conquests are made, new vistas extend to further horizons, that battle flags must again be unfurled, and the shrill cry of bugles be answered.

Each generation in its turn must answer that call. In 1898, it came as a challenge to free Cuba and the Philippines from serfdom. In 1917, it came as an appeal from our sister nations across the sea to rescue them from aggression. Today, the battle is on once more. The enemies of freedom are on the march; and as we take our place by the side of the other United Nations, we know as well as they, what we are fighting for. The Atlantic Charter, the fifth blueprint of freedom, has defined our aims and plotted the course of human liberty for us and for the generations that will follow.

The first of the four freedoms, freedom of worship, is particularly dear to us. It is our direct contribution to the Atlantic Charter. Never will we sign a treaty of peace with any nation that will not guarantee freedom from oppression and persecution of religious groups, or that will not remove all restrictions against the free worship of individuals in accordance with the dictates of conscience. What nobler cause is worth fighting for?

Not only from motives of idealism do we demand freedom of speech and of the press, but also from self-protection. Free countries cannot exist in a world in which unscrupulous leaders can poison the minds of their followers with deliberate falsehood and by suppression or distortion of the truth. The power of the press and of the radio in paving the way for Hitler's conquests proves how the peace of the world may be destroyed by vicious propaganda.

Freedom from want, a new plank in the platform of freedom, has been condemned as too idealistic. On the contrary, it is the most realistic of our aims. People whose living conditions are so wretched that they have nothing to lose by desperate measures to improve their lot, fall easy prey to the lure of radical leaders and can be readily convinced that war and conquest are the only remedies for their poverty. Or they may become attached as satellites to stronger nations, become the victims of exploitation, and be used as pawns in the game of power politics.

Finally, freedom from fear is not the vague and nebulous aim that it has been charged with being. Nothing saps the strength and resourcefulness of nations as does the fear of aggression. It is the chief weapon in the arsenal of the dictator. The history of the present war gives evidence of the paralyzing effect of fear upon nations when the threat of invasion is leveled against them. Any plan for a peaceful world must be based upon a guarantee of security for the smaller nations. Never again can we of America allow ourselves to be lulled into security behind our ocean moats while predatory powers gain strength to attack us by sapping the resources of countries which look in vain to us for aid.

These, then, are the goals for which we are fighting. It is true that they are less specific than the other causes for which we have gone to war—to gain our independence, to free the slave, to help maintain the freedom of the seas. But their very vagueness, their broad and sweeping complications testify to the widening of our concept of freedom. For the third time within the memory of living men, we have entered an arena from which we might have stayed away, with safety if not with honor. But to do so would have been to deny everything that is sacred in the American way of life. Let us hope that the rest of the world finally realizes that America will fight for freedom whenever and wherever it is in danger. When we commit ourselves, by some such blueprint as the Atlantic Charter, to face the problems of peace with the same strength, ingenuity, and resourcefulness as we cope with the problems of war, then will America's destiny have been fulfilled and our dead shall not have died in vain.

THE NEW WORLD

THEODORE W. WELLS

As long as man has sailed the seven seas, his maps and charts have shown the earth as divided into two separate hemispheres, one at the East and one at the West, each independent of the other. The fact that they are joined at the North Pole was generally disregarded. Since most ships and vessels sailed no farther north than Alaska or Iceland, such maps were in every way suitable for the constant use of sea-captains and pilots. Gradually the hemispheric concept of the World was standardized, and thereafter world maps for all purposes conformed to this idea. Because they were made to emphasize the peopled areas of the earth, places such as northern Russia, the islands about Baffin Bay, and the North Pole area were only very vaguely sketched in. As a result, the idea that America is separated by a great expanse of sea from the rest of the World sprang up and became more and more widely accepted; and hence was established the foundation for an American policy of isolation.

As travel by air increased and the present war made more and more demands of the airplane, the misconceptions and other faults of the widely used world map became increasingly evident. Why should airplanes pursue the old ship routes, when much shorter courses lay through the Arctic region? Since land and sea are alike to the aviator when in flight, why should the Arctic region, though impassable by land, be an obstacle to air travel? Men answered these questions by devising a new world map, a map with the North Pole as the center and placing in greater prominence the Arctic region.

Up to that time, the seven seas had been the main routes of transportation, since they were comparatively safer from attack than land routes. These courses, in general, paralleled the equator and extended around the central portion of the Globe.

The future air routes, however, lie in a more longitudinal course. Essentially, they will pass through the Arctic region and, more particularly, through the northern latitudes. This new area will then, become the cross-roads for the airlines of the future. Practically all future commerce will be carried on in our Northern Hemisphere.

This new map changes our whole conception of the World and of our relationship with other countries. We notice that the earth is no longer divided into two hemispheres, but is now one whole, the continents stretching forth from the North Pole like a three-pointed star, and with the insertion of the Arctic region as the missing link in a chain, some startling facts become evident. If bombers were to set out from Japan together, some would reach San Francisco at the same time the others would reach Chicago. Under the new concept of the World, Chicago and Boston are nearer to Russia than to many Latin-American countries. In fact, Washington, D. C., is closer to every European capital than to parts of South America. These new relations and distances are becoming of great importance as the airplane knits together more closely the capitals of the world.

A radical change has already had to be made in war strategy and defense. The air age has made vulnerable many places which were once safe from assault by land or by sea and were therefore formerly used as centers for ammunition factories or as places of refuge. As far as the airmen are concerned, such points are just as easily bombed as seaports or coastal areas. Sad but true, our enemies in the present conflict knew this fact and its practicability long before we awoke to it, and as a result had the upper hand in the first part of the present war. It was Germany that took the initiative by bombing London, once immune to the destruction of war. It was Japan that dealt the first and startling blow against the United States by assaulting our air base at Pearl Harbor. It was she, too, that gained by air the control of the East Indies, which Great Britain has been trying so long and hard to regain. There are countless instances of places, once inaccessible by war, which have now been utterly demolished by means of the air. Certainly the maxim: "He who rules the sea rules the world" must be changed to say: "He who rules the air rules the world".

But in time of peace this air age must bring about radical changes in our relations with other countries. Up to the present time, our nearest neighbors have been the Latin-American countries. Although we could not take them as our possessions, we have tried to keep peace among them, and by protecting them, to protect our own country. As we have also seen, however, with the advent of long-range flying, which is sure to follow in time of peace, Europe and Russia must be considered as equally close neighbors. Just as we formerly insured our safety by keeping harmony among our neighbor countries, so we can presently remove all danger of aggression only by maintaining a balance of power among European and other future neighbors, as well. Our Good Neighbor Policy must finally be extended to encircle the globe. For the survival of American freedom and prosperity, cooperation, not isolation, will be the keyword.

Looking back over recent history, we readily see that the world was dominated by the powers whose fleets controlled the sea. After the defeat of the Spanish Armada, Great Britain dominated the world, for she had become mistress of the sea.

In the present struggle we have observed that the nation who rules the air has the greatest advantage over her enemies, as in the case of Germany and Japan at the outset of the war, or of Great Britain later in the course of the conflict, when she carried supplies across Africa to the Allied Forces.

Looking at the future, we perceive that the air will be the dominant means of communication, travel, and commerce. The nation best equipped to carry on air service will obviously be the most successful in every way. But no one nation must control the air, and hence the world. As we have proved, a balance of power must be maintained throughout the earth. Every nation must embrace a Good Neighbor Policy and seek to understand its brother countries. We Americans must begin at once to learn all we can about countries and peoples which were practically unknown to us before World War II, places which the various theaters of war have brought to light, places to which many of us may soon be sent, and places which are destined to become our neighbors in the air age. As we stand upon the brink of a new era of civilization, let us leave behind us the narrow and crooked way of isolation, and set out upon the broad, straight way of cooperation, which leads to prosperity and peace.

CLASSMATES:

At this time we bring to a close four years at Melrose High School, years which will be memorable because of the many friends we have made and the good times we have enjoyed. Tonight we see the climax of four years of study, years in which we have received the invaluable training needed to perform our future tasks.

Presently the members of our class will be scattered probably farther apart than those of any former class. Certain ones of our number are already enlisted in the various services of our country. We shall not be called upon to work as individuals toward personal ends, but to work together as a unit toward one goal — the preservation of freedom. Wherever we are, or whatever part we are privileged to take in the task which has already been started, let us always try to live up to the standards set by Melrose High School. The best of luck to each of you, and farewell!

WHAT IS AMERICA FIGHTING FOR?

EQUAL OPPORTUNITY FOR ALL!

(ONE OF THE ESSENTIALS OF A DEMOCRACY)

Deep in the breast of every American boy flames the light of hope and ambition. Equal opportunity to "make his mark" is one of the many American principles our country will ever fight to protect.

American fathers have shown their sons that—in our country—individual initiative has brought success time and again. Throughout our country's history, the thousands of great Americans, who, by their own efforts, raised themselves high in America's state, professional and business life repeatedly illustrate this truth. In America—as nowhere else—every boy, rich or poor, has that cherished privilege of making his life worth while in the field of endeavor he chooses!

Equal opportunity for all . . . the American ideal of free enterprise . . . the American way of life! Those things have made America great. These principles will see America through to Victory!

Many of today's business leaders owe their present success to the start they received from The Book of Knowledge. In a little more than 30 years time, this great work has served the needs of more than 3,500,000 children.

We Know Our Under-Grads

THE UNDER-GRADS OF NEW ENGLAND KNOW US

There is a bond of good will that exists between Kennedy's and the smart young men of New England. Our many years of experience in satisfying their demands for their special kind of clothes . . . the right styles at the right time . . . have given us a place in their wardrobe planning that we are indeed proud to have. And parents are just as enthusiastic in their approval of prices which are geared to the times.
